Government and Taxes

Government

Chesterfield County has a County Administrator and a five-member Board of Supervisors.

The county has a comprehensive plan and zoning and subdivision ordinances.

Chesterfield is the county seat. There are no incorporated towns within the county.

Chesterfield maintains a AAA bond rating.

Chesterfield offers spacious, award-winning communities and neighborhoods conveniently located near quality shopping and dining.

Taxes

Localities in Virginia collect a 1% sales tax. They do not tax other items taxed at the State level.

Counties and cities in Virginia are separate taxing entities. Therefore, a company pays taxes to either a county or to a city.

If a company is located in a town, it pays town and county taxes except for utility taxes which are paid only to the town and the license tax which is paid only to the town unless town law permits the additional collection of a county tax.

Manufacturers pay real estate, machinery and tools, truck and automobile, utility, and sales taxes.

Nonmanufacturers pay real estate, tangible personal property, truck and automobile, utility, and sales taxes. They also may pay either a merchants' capital or a license tax.

Community Facilities

Chesterfield County residents are only minutes away from any of the metropolitan area's medical facilities. The American Medical Association has designated the area as a prime medical center, a designation given only to cities where every type of medical care and surgery is provided. There are more than 3,500 physicians and 17 acute care and specialty hospitals with nearly 4,000 staffed beds.

The Chesterfield County Library System consists of a main library and eight branches. Approximately 1.9 million visitors use the county facilities that have an annual circulation of nearly 3.5 million items. Reciprocal agreements with neighboring library systems allow residents to be in touch with the vast collections available in the area. Libraries at eight area colleges and universities are also accessible to the public.

More than 750 churches and synagogues are located in the region. The predominant denomination is Baptist, but congregations representing all major Protestant, Catholic, Greek Orthodox, and Mennonite faiths are active.

Chesterfield residents can take advantage of a vast assortment of retail shops. From regional malls such as Chesterfield Towne Center, complete with national and regional department stores and specialty chain stores to neighborhood convenience marts, shopping choices are virtually unlimited. Over 30 shopping centers are located in the county along with additional retail and commercial expansion underway.

The Village of Midlothian has been rated one of the nation's "100 Best Places to Live" by Money Magazine.

Lifestyle

Chesterfield County contributes significantly to the high level of arts and cultural activities available in the community at large. The John Rolfe Players, a community theater organization, have entertained area residents with their productions for over 35 years. Swift Creek Mill Playhouse, located in a historic mill, is a dinner theater that offers a steady diet of stage plays and musicals. Within the region, theater patrons can enjoy a variety of productions from area organizations such as Theatre Virginia, Theatre IV, and touring Broadway plays and musicals that are presented at the Landmark Theater and the Carpenter Center for the Performing Arts. Musical entertainment is offered by the Richmond Symphony that includes a Masterworks and Pops series, the Sinfonia, the Virginia Opera, and a wealth of choral groups.

The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, in Richmond, features an extensive collection of world art including the Fabergé collection of Russian Imperial Eggs and the Lewis Collection of Art Nouveau. The Science Museum of Virginia, Valentine Museum, Edgar Allan Poe Museum, and the Museum of the Confederacy reflect Virginia's heritage. The Chesterfield County Museum is located in a reproduction of the original 1749 county courthouse and highlights exhibits on the county's history including its Indian heritage, coal mining, and agriculture. Numerous historic homes and buildings such as Amphill Estate, Salisbury, and Magnolia Grange are open to the public.

Recreational opportunities in the county are plentiful. Approximately 9,218 acres of public parks and recreational facilities are available for both indoor and outdoor enthusiasts. The county is an ideal location for fishing and water sports as the James and Appomattox Rivers make up much of the county's borders along with the 3,000-acre Lake Chesdin. The County operates 35 parks and athletic complexes and provides extensive instructional and organized sports programming for all age groups. Pocahontas State Park features a swimming pool, boat rentals, hiking trails, camping, horseback riding, and a nature center within its 1,783 acres. Public golf courses, private country clubs, numerous private swim and racquet clubs, and fitness centers complement publicly-provided leisure activities.

Chesterfield County has one Enterprise Zone and two subzones comprised of 3,820 acres. The Enterprise Zone incentives include tax credits and rebates, fee waivers, utilities connection credits, job grants and real property investment grants. Chesterfield County has established a Technology Zone comprised of 3,840 acres to replace an expired Enterprise Zone. The Technology Zone incentives include tax credits and rebates, fee waivers, utilities connection credits. Chesterfield County will continue to offer local incentives in the same geographic areas formerly designated as "Enterprise Zones" in the new "Technology Zones".

The region is home to the Richmond Flying Squirrels, the AA affiliate of the San Francisco Giants baseball team, and Richmond Kickers, a member of the United Soccer Leagues (USL). Two major amusement parks, Busch Gardens in Williamsburg and Kings Dominion in Hanover County, are both less than one hour's drive from Chesterfield and offer exciting rides and entertainment for family. The coastal beaches at Virginia Beach and the famed Blue Ridge Mountains are about a two hour drive from the county, underscoring the convenience of a Chesterfield County location for both work and leisure pursuits.
